This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world’s books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that’s often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book’s long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google’s system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google “watermark” you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can’t offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book’s appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

YORKSHIRE CHURCH NOTES

1619–1631,

ROGER DODSWORTH.

EDITED BY J. W. CLAY, F.S.A.,

Member of the Council of the Yorkshire Archæological Society.

PRINTED FOR THE SOCIETY,

1904.
PREFACE.

Of the many volumes written by Roger Dodsworth, the great Yorkshire antiquary, now in the Bodleian Library, Oxford, Volume 160 is one of the most interesting. It consists of notes made by him of visits to Yorkshire churches in the years 1619 to 1630, with copies of inscriptions on monuments then existing, and with notices of the ancient painted glass in the windows. It has been freely used by many antiquaries, especially by the Rev. Joseph Hunter, F.S.A., in the History of South Yorkshire, but has not hitherto been printed in full.

Sir William Dugdale, who incorporated the labours of Dodsworth in his Monasticon, seems to have done the same in a volume in the College of Arms, which the editor, by the kindness of the authorities there, has been allowed to examine. On the outside it is labelled Dugdale's Yorkshire Arms, but inside there is this title: "INSIGNIUM EPITAPHIORUM, venerandae antiquatis INSCRIPTIONUM, TUMULORUMque iconarum aliquid in diversis Ecclesiis parochialibus, Nobilium cedibus, aliisque locis infra Comitatum EBORACENSEM EXEMPLAR. Liber Officii Armorum de dono WILLIELMI DUGDALE NORROY. Maledictus sit qui abstulerit." This book seems to be a manuscript of Dodsworth's Oxford volume, with some additions of church visits of a later date. The arms are beautifully drawn, and not described, and there are many illustrations in pen and ink of churches and monuments.
PREFACE.

At one of the recent sales of the Phillips Library a manuscript volume came into the possession of our president, Sir Thomas Brooke, Bart. It is entitled: "Arms and Monuments in Churches, &c., in the West Riding of Yorkshire, copied from Dodsworth's original manuscript, in the possession of John Hatfield Kaye, esquire, F.S.A., and rivers and places noted by Mr. Dodsworth, with additions by Dugdale, Doctor Johnston, of Pontefract, and J. H. K." This appears to be a partial copy of the Dugdale volume at the College, and has all the arms neatly drawn with some of the illustrations.

Sir Thomas Brooke kindly offered this manuscript to the Yorkshire Archæological Society as a volume to be printed for the Record Series, and the editor undertook the task of bringing it out. It was, however, found that as it was not a complete copy of Dodsworth's volume, only comprising the West Riding, and as the arms were not described, it would be best to have a copy made from the original at Oxford. Miss A. F. Parker, of that city, has therefore made a full manuscript of the Bodleian volume, which is now brought before our subscribers. Her task has been a very difficult one, as Dodsworth's writing is sometimes very rough and confused, and his copies of inscriptions not altogether correct, as may be seen by the monuments at present existing—copied by him. Good Latin scholars will doubtless find errors, but it would have been an impossible task to have begun altering the text, so that the only course appeared to be to make as perfect a copy as possible of the original MS., and for that reason the proofs have been carefully re-examined at Oxford.

It could be wished that Dodsworth had gone through the whole of the Yorkshire churches, but we must be thankful that we have an account of so many monuments and so much glass, totally destroyed since his time, in the many churches he visited.
PREFACE.

It was intended to have had some of the illustrations in Sir Thos. Brooke's volume copied, but the funds of the Record Series are not in such a favourable condition as to warrant a large expenditure. The editor has, however, ventured to insert engravings of some of the coats of arms from blocks in his possession, which he thought would add a little interest to the heraldry.

In conclusion, the editor has to thank Messrs. Paley Baildon, Wm. Brown, S. J. Chadwick, M. H. Peacock and Mill Stephenson for advice, and for looking through many of the proofs.

J. W. CLAY.

1 There was a William Turton buried at Penistone, whose will was proved at York, 4 March, 1443-4.
2 Vicar, M.A. Will 11 January, proved York, 20 February, 1458-9. His successor, William Wordsworth, was instituted February, 1458-9. So there must be some mistake about the above date.
3 The Wordsworth family, of which the poet was a descendant, was early settled here. There were several Williams. 15 September, 1535, William Wordsworth, of Snodhill, made his will.
4 March, 1539-40, William Wordsworth, of Penistone, proved 30 November, mentions a wife Jennet, and to be buried within the church door. This might be the above.
5 Sir William Benson, priest of the parish of Penistone, made his will 12 November; proved York 14 Dec., 1543.
6 There is a slight notice about the Oxsprings, of Oxspring in Penistone, in Hunter’s South Yorkshire, ii, 354.

1 Henry Everingham, seneschal to the Earl of Shrewsbury, 20 Hen. VII, married one of the three daughters and heiresses of John Wadsley, of Wadsley in Hallamshire.
2 Probably Henry, grandson of the above Henry Everingham; he married Muriel, daughter of Sir John Burton, of Kinsley. For an account of the Ever nymphs see Hunter's South Yorkshire, ii, 264.
3 Silkston Manor belonged to the Darcies, and when Lord Darcy was executed, on account of the Pilgrimage of Grace, it was granted to the Earl of Lennox.
4 The Dronfields were a great family at Bretton, but this would seem their sole remembrance in the church. Their property came by marriage to the Wentworths.

NORTH QUER.

Christ is our lie of, and death is our advantage.

Here under this tombe is placed and buried the bodies of Robert Swift, esquier, and Ann, his first wief, who lyved many yeres in the town of Rotherham, in vertuous fame, great wealth, and good worshipp. They were pitifull to the pore and releived them, and to ther freindes no lesse faithfull then bountifull. Truly they feared God, who plentifully powred his blessinges upon them. The said Anne dyed in the monthe of June in the yere of our Lord God 1539, in the 67 yere of her age, and the said Robert departed the viij of August in the yere of our Lord God 1561, in the 84 yere of his age, on whose soules and all Christen soules th'Omnipotent Lord have mercy. Amen. Respice finem.

1 Hunter calls this place Hawksworth.
2 The first of the Swifts of Rotherham. He was a mercer. Will 11 February, 1559–60, proved at York 2 December, 1561. His wife was Anne, daughter of William Taylor, of Sheffield. (See also Hunter's South Yorkshire, i, 204.)

Mitton Church.

Sir Richard Sherborne, of Stonyhurst, knight, builded a chappell from the ground, adjoyning on the North of the quiere, with the consent of the parishoners, for a place of buriall for himself and his successors, wheer he himself lyeth in a faire tombe, with this inscription:

Here lyeth the bodies of Sir Richard Sherburne, knight, Master Forrester of the Forrest of Bowland, Steward of the mannor of Slateborne, Leifennant of the Ill of Man, and one of Her Majestie's Deputy Leifennants within the county of Lancaster, and Dame Maud, his wief, daughter of Sir Richard Bould, knight, by whom he had yssue; who dyed the x of November, 1588, and Sir Richard dyed the 26 of July, 1594. Dame Isabella Sherburn, second wief to Sir Richard, erected this tombe, according to her husbande's mind, att her owne chardges.

Ther was a chantry in the quier of St. Nicholas, on the North sid of the said church of Mitton, founded in the 8 yere of Henry 8 by Hugh Sherborne, of Stonyhurst, grandfather of the abovenamed Sir R. S. Thes words are graven about the same quyer in the wood:

Orate pro anima Ricardi de Shirburn et pro anima [Alicie] Hammerton, uxoris sue, anno MCCCXLV obit prefatus Ricardus et erat hic tumulus in diem [sic] Assencionis Domini nostri Ihesu Christi, cujus anime propicietur, etc. Requiem aeternam dona eis, Domine.

1 There is a good account of this tomb, with later ones, in Whitaker's Craven, p. 25.
2 Hugh Sherborne, of Stonihurst, died 19 Hen. VIII. Married Ann, daughter of Sir Edmund Talbot, of Bashall.

Mitton haith formerly belonged to Sir Rafe Mitton, knight. It is thought that one Bayly of Aghton married one of his heires, whose daughter and heire was since married to Sherborne,\(^1\) who in her right are still seized of lordship or mannor of Bayley and Chadgeley. It is to be notyd that att the tyme of his marriage, Sherborne being seruant to H. Lacy, Comes Lincoln., was only possest of landes in Wiswall and Catforth within the county of Lancastere, and in respect he was thought vnworthy to match with the said heire of Ba[yley], his lord and master, H. Lacy, gave him the moyety of h[is] lordship of Chorley,\(^2\) and the 4th part of the ma[nor] of Bolton in the Moores, to make him equall [......], which landes he holdeth at this day.

Chadgley aforesaid is, as itt were, Chadd lay, taking the name of St. Chadd, who, as the report goeth, ledd an hermit’s lief in a place in thos dayes overgrown with woodes, wher att this day [are] the ruines of a chappell dedicated to the memory of him, which, though itt be in the county of Lancastere, yett itt is, notwithstanding, within the diocesse of Yorke, which I am the willinger to remember in respect my very kind and respective freind, Mr. Richard Holden, haith ther his habitacion, whose auncestors have lived ther in good reputation ever since the time of Henry 3, about which tyme Henry Holden married Cecily, daughter of Jordan, son of Sir Rafe de Mitton, and had his landes in Chadgeley given in frank marriage, wher he hath continyued ever since.

Memorandum. King Henry 6 taken in a bushy place nere Waddington, then called Waddington Hollyns, now knowen by the name of Harrj Greaves, by ............ Talbot of Bashall adjoyning, which King, thought to have the spirit of prophecy, did devine of the said Talbotte’s successors.\(^3\) Ther are theraboutes sundry thinges that did belong to him, as the spoone he used to eate withall, and a gowne of black velvet, att Mr. Pudseys’s att Bolton, a carpett att Waddington, and a jewell, wher it is noted ther haith never beene poverty since wher the jewell is kept.

Rible haith his begining on the West side of . . . . . . Hills, and running downe towadres Horton, giveth name unto the Riblesdale Valley, taketh his course by Setle, which hath marcate on the Wedensday, very much frequented, and haith likewise a faire for 3 dayes at St. Lawrence Day. From thence by Gigleswick, wher ther is a free schoole founded by Henry 8, then to Wiglesworth, now the possession of R. Sherborne, of Stonyhurst in Lancashire, and so to Long Preston, wher an almeshouse is lately founded by one James Knolles for the relife of 12 pore people. Thence by Rawthmell and Arneforth to Hellefied Peele, the mansion of the ancient family of Hammerton, whose ancestors have beene of speciall ranck in these partes since the Conquest (and were his smithes, as is said), vntill of that name. Then to Swinden, Nawpey [Nappa], and Newshom, Sir Stephen Hamerton did forget his duetty, &c., and forfeited his estate. Thence Rible goeth to Halton, which haith auncently had owners and so by 2 Paythornes and Gisborne, to Bolton in Bolland, which from a family of that name descended to . . . . . . Pudsey, about the tyme of Richard 2, who still continue ther. Thence to Sauley, an Abbey founded by W., Lord Percy, tempore Henry I, so to Grindle-ton, Bradforth, and betwixt Waddington and Clitherow to Edesforth, the seat for a long tyme of Colthurst, thence to Mytton and so to Winckley, where, when she hath entertyned Hoder, they both bidd Yorkshire farewell.

The course of the River Aire.

Note that nere the head Aire runneth underground.

Aire haith his begining in the botomme of Pennigent Hill, which is accounted the highest hill in the West parte, together with Pendle and Ingleborrow, wherofe the inhabitants usually repeat this ryme:

Pennigent, Pendle, and Ingleborrow,
Are the highest hills all England thorrow.

Camden, fol. 749, saith:

Ingleborough, Pendle, and Pennigent,
Are the highest hills betweene Scotland and Trent.

² These lists are so confused that it is sometimes difficult to know which are forests and which chases.
The first place that [it] saluteth is Kirkby Malhomdale, and so to Cawton [Calton], on the North side, the seat now of Mr. Lamberd. Hard by on the South sid Ayre giveth name to Ayreton and passeth on to .................................................. 1

Then leaving Barden Chace and Barden Tower on [the] left hand, which was builded by ........ Lord Percy .........., 2 he saluteth Gargrave, a pretty village, cometh not far from Banke Newton, wher the famyly of Bankes have a long tyme lived competently, since they bettered their estates by marriagd of the daughter and heire of Catherton. Here the river so desporteth himself, as Mr. Camden haith noted, that in little more then ........ myles, a man must crosse it ........ tymes.

Hence Aire receveth, att a place called Ingo, at [sic] little riveret called Broughton Beck, which haith his head att Barlewic [Barnoldswick], where Henry Lacy founded an Abbey att a place called Saint Marie's Mount, which place by the monkes was in short tyme forsaken, as I shall note hereafter. Cometh to Thornton, 3 now the seat of Sir William Lister, knight, to Elslack, wher long since the family named de Altaripa have flourished, wher ther haith beene a parke and castle of great antiquity, and by the inhabitantes called ...... Castle. King Edward ... granted licence to Godfrey de Altaripa, 4 lord therof, firmari et kernellari cameram suam nuper de petra et calce. Thence itt cometh to Broughton, Sir Stephen Tempeste's habitacion, and so into Ayre, as aforesaid.

Aire, after many wanton turning[s], commethe to Carlton, a fruitfull lordship and parke therunto belonging, and leaveth Skipton Castle on the left hand. Keepeth his course by Silsdeden, Glusburn, and Maulisi and Sutton, 5 formerly belonging to the family of Denton, whose daughter and heire brought [it] as a dower to Copley of Bateley. Thence by Ferneley [Parnhill], where Altoftes [Elofts] dwelleth, to Kildwick, where ther is a faire stone bridg. And so to Steeton, by Howden Parke to Kighley, a pretty marcat townw, which by a c[o]heir of a family of that name, of great antiquity, is descended to th'Erl of Devonshire. Heere she receveth Kighley Beck, which begins nere Denholme Parke and Halsted Parke. Thence to Bingley, a lordship in tymes past of the ......, to Bayldon, wher Mr. Baildon leaveth, as his ancestores of long tyme have done, in good repute.

1 Dodsworth has left a large space here, which he evidently intended to fill up later.

At Bayldon Aire receiveth Broughton Becke, which beginneth

Aire from thence keepeth on his course, the valley being straightened very much by the hills on both sides, leaveth the Tonge Parke, within the lordship of Bayldoun, but disparked sans memory, and a lordship called Idle, on the right hand, the possession [of] Plumptons since the Conquest, till of late itt came by long suyte to Suthell and Rocliffe's heyres. Thence to West Esholt, where the family of the Wardes a longe tyme had ther habitacion, whose great inheritance came in our fathers' dayes, by coheires, to Sir John Constable of Holderness, who had Esheholt and Esholt Parke (which had deere in man's memory), with the mannor of Guysley adjoyning, which is now Mr. Sherburne's, by purchase of his father, Sir Richard Sherburn, of Stonyhurst in com. Lanc. The 2d daughter and coheire² was married to Sir Edward Musgrave, who had the mannor of Givingdale, alias Geendale, nere Rippon. Itt was a goodly mannor, saith Mr. Bayldon, and the lordship of Bayldon was held of Sir Edward Musgrave and Ioan, his wief, with divers other lordships. Esholt was the cheif mannor house. Thes Wards are of Otteley parish, and builded the South ile of that church, ut traditur. Nere adjoyning is East Esholt, sometymes a nunry, most neatly seated. Mr. Bayldon, 1619 [or 1609 ?], saith that Dame Margret Martiall, sometime a nun at Esheholt, liv'd att Faweather adjoyning, and had a pension of 4li. or 5li. a yere during her lif, and dyed some 12 [yeres] since, and was a good church woman.

A myle on the North hand standeth Hawkesworth, wher a famyly of that name dwelleth.

Aire having left Esheholt keepeth on her course by Rawden, on the left hand, wher Oglesthorp lately sold a convent house to one Layton of Loudon. Itt haith formerly belonged to Bolton Abbey and sold by th'Erle of Cumberland to Oglesthorp. On the other hand standeth Calverley, the seat of the knightly famyly of the Calverleys, who lived in the best rancke till .... Calverley stayned his progeny by his barbarous cruelty in murding his owne children, &c.,³ out of a desperat humor, after he had greatly entangled and consumed his estate by his riotous courses. recovered his horse, his sonne was spared by God's gratious providence, who doth limit man's courses, &c. ¹ I saw him executed in primo Jacobi. He was prest.

From hence Aire runneth to Horsforth, a straggled towne, sometime the Greenes', but now belongeth to the Lister and Pollards and sundry other purchasers. Thence to Kirkestall Abbey, founded in anno . . . . . , by Henry de Lacy, at Bernolfwyke aforesaid, commonly called Barlewicke, which the Abbot . . . . . . . disliked propter incommoditatem coeli et grassatorum, procured this place (being then a hermitage) of William Pictavensis, by the mediation of Henry de Lacy aforesaid, . . . . yere after ther [?] foundation att Barlewicke. It was of the Cistercian order. Ther [he] had of the said William Pictavensis, beside the seat of ther house, foure carucates of land adjoyning called Moregrang, Newgrang, Cugric, and West Hedinglay, ubi quondam fuit maneriium predicti Willelmi, wher now one Cotes, out of a devout mynd, gave 60li. to the building of a convenient chappell for the ease of the inhabitantes, which charitable worke Sir John Savile, lord of the mannor, haith much furthered, by giving ground and appointing the worke.

From Kirkestall Aire cometh to Leedes, by Bede called Leodis.

The free schoole, founded by Queen Elizabeth about the 30. regni, and endowed with landes and houses in [and] about towne ad valentiam circiter 50l, per annum, by the benevolence of parishoners.

Note that the said Queen granted a mortmayne licence to the parishoners to purchase landes to the value of a C marks per annum, which is brought already to the value of 50l. almost, by the care of 14 governors chosen for that purchase. Georg Sayvill, a Blackwell
Hall man, and his sonnes, George, of the Inn of Court, and Thomas, 2d sonne, gave the site thereof. The parishoners endowed to the value aforesaid. They had a laye amongst them. Georg Sayvill, the father, gave, besides the syte, 6l, per annum and a legacy of 100l toward the building of the house.

One John Lowden of London, obiit in November, 1618, borne about Kendall, gave 100l. to be lent to pore deceased carriers. The occasion, as is thought, was: heer being a great trade of Blackwell men, 1100 a weake, from Wakefield, would usually [. . . . .] the carriers of ther usually [sic] price, which they were content with because they had so much imployment from him that they durst contrad[. . .] so that he paid them at his pleasure, which at [. . . .]
ende he recompenced in this manner.

Ther were belonging to the church of Wakefield 24 chantry preistes. Each had his lodging in certeyne houses in the North of the churchyard.

Att a place in Wakefield called Northgate Head stood St. John Chappell, now translated into a laythe, on South side wherof ther is a hollow place yet extant in the wall wher [an] anchoret lived.

1 Francis Woodruff of Wolley, Esq., married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Robert Neville, of Liversedge, and died 12 April, 1573.
2 The above John Woodruffe and Elizabeth Hamerton.

1472 to 1488. He was succeeded by (Sir) Thomas Yongsmyth, who made his will 6 January, proved at York 31 January, 1499-1500.

\textsuperscript{2} The Finchenden family had property in Batley. They were connected by marriage with the Kays of Woodsome, who quartered their arms.

\textsuperscript{3} There was a branch of the Sothill family at Everingham. John Sothill married Joan, daughter and heiress of Sir John Poucher. Their son John had one daughter, Barbara, married to Sir Mar-maduke Constable, and the other, Maria, to John Normanville.

\textsuperscript{4} Thomas Sotethill, son of the above

† Mabel, daughter of Walter Strickland, of Sizergh, was second wife of Sir Richard Tempest, of Stainforth.
‡ The arms of Sir Richard Tempest of Stainforth's second wife, name unknown.
§ Sir Richard Tempest, of Stainforth, was son of Sir Robert Tempest (son of Sir Richard Tempest, of Bracwell, and Margaret, sister and co-heiress of Robert Stainforth), by Alice, daughter of John Lacy. He was born about 1410, knighted by 1432, and was dead before May, 1488. He founded a chantry at Giggleswick Church. In 1889 the stone figure of a knight wearing the "SS" collar, his head resting on a goat's head erased, was dug up in the Tempest Chantry there, also the bones of a tall man. He married first a lady unknown, whose arms were, Az. three goats' heads erased or, by whom no issue; secondly, Mabel, daughter of Walter Strickland, of Sizergh. They had an only daughter, first wife of Thomas, Lord Darcy.

1 Born of a good family at Crofton. Bishop of Lincoln 1419, founded Lincoln College, Oxford, 1427, died at Sleaford 25 January, 1431. There is some confusion in this inscription. (See Yorkshire Archaeological Journal, vii, 119.)
2 See Glover's Visitation, 474.
3 Probably one of the Thornhill family.
4 This is generally considered to be the tomb of Sir John Savile, who married two wives, Alice, daughter of William Vernon, Esq., and Elizabeth, daughter of Sir William Paston. The inscription, however, dates 1529, whilst Sir John died 1504. It might have been made in his son Sir Henry Savile's time. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Sothill. Dods worth puts against it Hen. Saywell.

1 There is a will of Richard Pigborne, Scawceby (buried at Brodsworth), 16 June, proved at York 10 August, 1446, perhaps his son. The Pickburns were probably connected with the Rawsons of Pickburn, who were there at the time of Dugdale’s Visitation, and entered their pedigree.

2 Archbishop of York.

3 John Cresacre, of Barnborough, 18 Edw. IV, married Margaret, daughter of Sir Hugh Hastings, of Fenwick, who brought in the Foliot shield.

4 Daughter of Vincent Beverley, of Selby, and first wife of Thomas Levyns, or Levens, of Eske.
Mortalls that live must dye, and att death's call,
Into our earthen house resorte we all:
From his rough summons ther's none can be free,
What age, degree, or sex soe ere they bee.
Wittnes ANNE LEWYNS, whose untymely fate
Cal'd her awaye, before her nature's date,
When she was freshe and grene in strength of tyme,
When age and Nature tearm'de her in her prime.

But ah! this fairest rose so lyvely younge,
Pale gardner Deathe crops ere itt be well sprung:
And yet this flower earth's garden did adorne,
More faire then rising sonne doth cloudles mornne.
Whose colours were faire vertues trymlye dight,
Eye-pleasing vertues to the envious sight:
As blushing modesty, the mayden's crowne,
Obsequious love, in married rarer found.

Duety to parents, to all charity,
Affable wisdome joyn'd to gravity.
The sents this flowre expir'd were wondrous swete,
And sente from Heaven, for Heaven alone were mete.
Piety to all and pitty to the poore,
Zeale unto God, to her last fading houre.
Her wedlock knott love ty'de, nor was itt broke,
But cutt asunder by death's heavy stroke.

In all to all so pleasing was her havioure,
The world admir'd a floure of such a savoure,
But now this world is rob'd of this faire flower,
Which Death haith snatcht to decke his sable bower.
With itt he pluck't a budd, which hardly grewe,
But 't seem'd, 'twas borne to bidd the world adew;
This flowre so wondrous sweete we all may misse,
For in our garden grewe no more like this.

Which Heaven nowe holds though the roote rest in clay,
Till th'appy unyon att the Judgment Day.

Moriar ne moriar:
Mors Christi, vita mihi.

² The Bradfords were an important family who owned Heath Hall in Warmfield, near Wakefield. There was a younger branch at Stanley near the same place. There is a pedigree in Glover’s Visitations, Foster’s Ed., p. 326. There are several wills at York, some of which are copied in Test. Ebor., iv, 108. In 1474 William Bradford leaves out of his lands a chaplain to be found for seven years, three of which are to be at Warmfield, and four in the chapel of the Holy Trinity and St. Sitha near Ivybridge in Bradford. He also mentions lands in Bradford. There is no notice of any of the family living here but Beatrix, daughter of John Bradford, of Heath, who married Nicholas, a younger son of Sir Richard Tempest, of Bolling, and so her arms were associated with those of Tempest. Dodsworth calls the head a lion’s, but it is mostly described as a wolf’s.
³ James, in his History of Bradford, calls these the Badlesmere arms; if so they are generally described arg. a fess double cotised gu. What connection this family had with Bradford does not yet appear.

2 Probably Robert, brother of Brian Roucliffe, who married Anne, daughter and co-heiress of . . . . Etton. (Glover's Visitation.)

3 Sir Ingelram Clifford, son of first Earl of Cumberland, married Anne, daughter and heiress of John Rocliffe, of Cowthorpe. Will 8 January, 1577-8, proved London 6 July, 1579. Leaving no male issue, he left his lands at Cowthorpe to his nephew, the Earl of Cumberland. He mentions his wife Ursula, and father-in-law, William Maddison, so he may have been married twice, and son-in-law, Michael Porter, who might have been a step-son.

4 These are the arms of a quite different family of Burgh of Burgh, near Catterick. (See Raine's Catterick Church.) What the connection there is with Cowthorpe does not appear.

He married Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Thomas Clarell, of Aldwark, where he took his abode. He was High Sheriff of Yorkshire 1466, and died as in the inscription, being buried in the Friary at Tickhill. Will Feast of S. Matthew, 1479, proved York 5 September, 1480 (printed in Test. Ebor., iii, 246). His wife survived him many years, and was also buried at Tickhill. Her will, 24 December, 1502, proved York 13 June, 1503, is in Test. Ebor., iv, 209. Their son, Sir Thomas Fitzwilliam, was also buried at Tickhill. Will 27 April, 1497, proved York 6 June, 1498. He made a brilliant match with Lady Lucy Nevile, daughter of the Marquis Montacute, brother of the Kingmaker. Their son Thomas intended also to be buried at Tickhill, as he left directions in his will, 28 August, 1513, proved York 20 May, 1516: “My body to be buried in the Freers at Tykhill, if please Allmyghty God I may come home from the felde agaynste the Scottes. I will that myn executours make a tombre over my father wher he lyethe buried at the Freers at Tykhill, and another over myselfe yf it happen me ther to be huriede.” He how­ever was killed, and the Aldwark estates came to the Foljambe.

2 He made his will 6 September, proved at York 20 September, 1629. It is printed in Test. Ebor., i, 417. He leaves one hundred shillings and a cart and four horses to the making of Tickhill steeple. He lies buried in the south chancel, under a fine slab of Roche Abbey stone.

Sheffield Church, 17 August, 1620.

On a table hanging in the South quier buildeed by Georg, Erle of Salope, a little before his death.

An epitaph upon the death of the noble lord Georg, Erle of Shrowesburye, who departed this mortall life in the yeare of Lord God 1590, buryed the 18th daie of November.

Such as desire to live when fatall thread is spunne,
Synth man's life is shorte, ther course they must runne,
That fame and worthie actes and vertues maie comend
Unto posterities that live unto the end,
Else everie worthie deed full soone awaie shall weare,
Then shall they live as though they neer lived heare.
What difference shalbe twixt great and meanest man,
When of there famous deedses noe booke ought record can?
What booteth titles great of honour soe to have,
Or Cressus goulden store, when they lye in there grave?
More worth a thousand fould they famous for to bee
For vertues and noble actes then all the rest to thee.
What moved hath this peere himselfe to indevor
By his desertes to advance of his house the honour,
Whose fame I am to weake in verse well to expresse?
Aid me therfore, my muse, to shewe his worthines.

1 There are lives both of Christopher (1529-1599) and Robert Barker (died 1645) in the Dictionary of National Biography.
2 Dodsworth has given here a very poor account of the arms and monuments in the church. (See Hunter's Hallamshire.)
3 This epitaph, painted on a board, was for George, sixth Earl of Shrewsbury, whose monument is in the church.
Of this house the heraldes say in England there hath beene
Great lordes and barons bould, yere Normans did it wynne.
Whose daughter and his heire, Talbott of Normandie,
Did take unto her mate a man of like degree,
And of this progenie barons by nameSixteen.
And erles in number vi of great renowne have beene.
There matches often were with great nobilitie,
As plainly doth appearre at lardg by pettegree.
To speake of such as these, there valor in the feild
And of there worthie actes adventred with speer and sheild,
Which have beene heartofo, I leave to each his due,
To yeild longe time it craves; the stories who will vewe
Maie hearby understand there actes of chivallrie,
Which fame with blast of trump hath blowne both far and
And he that sleepeth now within this statly tombe [nye,
Of both these Talbottes race by right discent is come.
George, Erle of Shrowsburie, Washford and Waterford,
Erle Marshall of England, Talbot of Goodridge Lord
Verdone of Alton, Furnivall of Sheefeld Lord,
Lord Luffot of Worsopp, Lord Crumbwell of Wingfeld,
Lord Strange of the Blackemeere and Justice by North Trente
Of forrestes and chases, a councellor president
Unto his Soveraigne Queene, and for his loytye
Knight of the Garter eke, these titles all had hee,
Which solemnly proclaimed by heralds that daie
When was his funerall: with honour everie day.
Lefetenante of Stafford and Darbieshire also,
In daies most dangerous assigned he was thoo.
A mightie man he was, in welth he did abound,
Of all his howse therin the like was never found.
He fast was to his frend, and heavie to his foe,
He lived soe direct that none could worke him woe.
The poore mans plainte to heare, his eares would alwaies bend,
And them in there cause against there foes defend.
Five hundred pound he gave for ever to remaine
To Chesterfeld to helpe poore tradesmen without gaine.
Of courage he was stoote, no injurie would beare,
No subject in this land in whome he stood in feare.
Great was this Talbot's strength, if he to prove had list,
More power he could have raised then each man could have
But ever he lay still his countrey to defend [wisht.
And never did oppresse, wherby he might offend.
Marye, Queene of Scottes, then vanquished at home,
    In battell unto us for succor first did come,
Where shee by seaventeen yeares abode with this great peer,
    Untill against this realme to worke shee did conspere
Great things whearof by lordeis thrice tenne and six of name
    Shee tainted was at last and suffred for the same.
Soe great a trust as this so longe was never scene,
    A subject for to be a keeper of a queene.
To scape out of his handes by divers waies she sought,
    But still he did prevent the waie that she had wrought.
For wisely he did see what peril might have beene,
    If shee had scapt awaie, to realme or eke to queene.
Wherfore he shewed himselfe most carefull for to bee
    Soe great a chardge to keepe with all fidelitie,
Whereby he hath preserved his name of soe great renowne
    The Talbot ever trew and faithfull to the Crowne.
But yett for all his wealth, his honour and his fame,
    Loe where he lies in earth from whence at first he came.
For each thinge bearinge life in tyme it shall decay,
    And nothinge soe sure as death, uncertaine is the daie.
He spareth noe degree, but with his sythe in hand
    He mowes downe all like grasse his force none can withstand.
Such as applye themselves uprightly for to live,
    When they yeild upp there breath, it never doth them greive.
But such as have no care of baile, nor blisse at all,
    They never have regard what things on them befall.
Such men live in this world as though they should not dye,
    And as the dredfull hell was nought els but a lye.
But sure the daie will come when each accompt must yeild
    Before the fearfull judge when noe man shall them sheild.
Wherfore while time there is, let us for mercye crave,
    That after wee goe hence a blessed place maie have.
In peace, yow worthie wight, rest here till Christ shall come Upon all flesh to geve his censure and his doome,
And then with joifull voice, Lord, call him unto Thee,
    Where he maie ever dwell with them that blessed be.
    Finis.

\textsuperscript{1} George, first Lord Darcy of Aston (son of Lord Darcy, beheaded for his share in the Pilgrimage of Grace), was restored in blood. This splendid tomb yet remains. Hunter says the latter years of his life were clouded by the misconduct of his younger son George, who slew his neighbour, Lewis West, and that perhaps it was on that account he was buried at Brayton, instead of at Aston, close to his home.

\textsuperscript{2} Son of John Twisleton, citizen and alderman of London. His will is at York, 17 January, 1578-9, proved 12 February, 1579-80. His grandson appeared at the 1612 Visitation.

\textsuperscript{3} The manor of Badsworth belonged to the family of Longvillers, then by marriage of the heiress Margaret to Geoffrey de Neville. They had a daughter Johanna, who married William de Herforth, and had the manor from her mother. Her descendant Joan married Thomas Urswick, who in her right became lord. Their granddaughter Isabel, circa 36 Henry VI, married William Vavasor, but died issueless. The manor however remained with the Vavasors till

1 There is a short pedigree of this family in Glover’s Visitation, page 174. He was son of Edmund Bigod, of Scaglethorp. His administration at York is 5 January, 1582–3. His wife was daughter of Anthony Young, of Craven, and her will, 1 March, 1614–5, was proved at York 22 April, 1615.

2 Robert Newport made his will 20 October, 1481, proved at York 26 June, 1484. There seems no pedigree of Newport, or any printed information about the family.

3 Thomas Newport, Esq., of Boynton, made his will Tuesday following Feast of St. John the Baptist, 1441, proved at York 29 November, 1442. In the pedigree of Boynton in Foster’s Yorkshire Families, it states that Sir Robert was a son of Sir Thomas Boynton, of Acklam, and that he was Governor of Berwick Castle circa 1381, and married Isabel, daughter of Sir William Normanvile.

Viator siste, quid eras, et quid eris perpende, ego sicut fœnum arvi, et ecce nunc in pulvere requiesco, revicturus e terra in novissimo die. Virtus est vera nobilitas. Memoria justi est benedicta, Nomen autem improborum patridum est.

Hic jacet Gulielmus Belasyse, eques auratus, qui honorificè juvenis etiamque senex vixerat usque ad ætatem lxxx et amplius annorum. Qui vivus habuit Henricum, filium suum, super Margaretam, filiam Nicolai Fairfax de Gilling, militis, et Thomas, Henrici per Ursulam, filiam Thomæ Fairfax de Denton, militis, haereditem, unum et alterum simul milites, et tandem fæliciter moriebatur 14 die Aprilis anno salutis 1604.

¹ These must be the arms of John, Duke of Bedford, K.G., which are illustrated in W. St. John Hope’s "Windsor Stall Plates." He was third son of Henry IV, and was Regent of France; born 1389, died s.p. 1435.
² Sir William Belasyse (heir of his uncle, Anthony Belasyse, who had a grant of Newburgh Priory) was born about 1525. Will 20 September, 1600, proved at York 11 May, 1604. He married, as in the inscription, Margaret, daughter of Sir Nicholas Fairfax, of Gilling. His eldest son, Sir Henry, was created a baronet, and married Ursula, daughter of Sir Thomas Fairfax, of Denton. Their son, Sir Henry, married Barbara, daughter of Sir Henry Cholmeley.

Slyngsby Church, 1 July, 1619.

Honor et amor.

Pray for the saull of Sir John Stone, person of this church and chapleyne to th’Erle of Northumberland the iiiij. Anno 1508.

Virtus, justitia.

Ther is [in] the quier a monu-[m]ent cross[?]egg’d of one of the Wyvills, att his feet a talbott couchinge; no inscription; a sheild on his arme with three chevrons embraced and a cheif depicted, the coulors hard to see.

Ther is in the East end of the towne an old house of stone called Wyvill Hall.

The tradition is that betwixt Malton and this towne ther was sometymes a serpent that lyved upon pray of passengers, which this Wyvill and dogg did kill, wher he received his deathe’s wound. Ther is a great hole half a myle from the towne, round within and 3 yerdes broad and more, wher this serpent lay, in which tyme the street was turned a myle on the South side, which doth still show itt self, if any take paynes to search itt.

Ther is in the West window, per pale; ar. on a bend gu. escallopes, with quarterly or and gu., in the first quarter a raven proper.

On the steeple, ingraven in stone, a manch, and over the castle gates, which castle, mannor, and parke was the ancient possession of the Hastinges, erles of Huntington, now sold to Sir Charles Cavendis[?]. Ther haith beene a church in the castle.

Slyngsby paies 8s. 8d. a yere to the mannor of Mowbray fee.

Slyngsby is watered with a sweete rivelet called Wath Beck, which haith springes upp att Ganthorpe, comethe by Aryholme, wher itt receiveth many small springes, and comethe to Wath, which giveth itt name, thence to Friton and by Slyngsby into Holbeck.

The mannor of Hovingham was not long since the Lord Barkley’s.

Wathe, inter Fryton and Hovingham, was a religious house of women, now the possession of Sir Thomas Mettham.

Ther is the walls of a faire chappell, nere as bigg as the church, within the castle walls, where they had service in tyme of warres within themselves.
Ther have beene 6 knights of the Wivilles that have succeeded on another att Wyvill Hall abovesaid, and the heire of Wyvill haith itt att this day, but not of so great estait as his auncestors were, for one of them taking parte with Stafford (that came to Scarbrough and tooke the Castle) lost all his land, but only Wyvill Hall, which was then in joyniture.

Note.—Sir Marmaduke Wyvill of Constable Burton, baronett, did descend from the more antient Wyvills.

Hic cantarium sistere perpetuam
Fundans, Christe, Thome Wytham³ misere [sic] sueque
Agneti sponse, qui simul hic recubant.

¹ These appear to be the arms of Thweng, as under. The arms of Wawton were per fess arg. and gu. This monument would probably be to one of the Thwengs. Their early history is not very clear in Glover’s Visitations. The will of Marmaduke Thweng, of Cornborough and Sheriff Hutton, is at York, 1 January, 1426, to be buried at the latter place, leaving two sons, George and John.

² The arms of Thweng are generally blazoned arg. on a fess gu. between three popinjays vert, as many escallops of the field. The eaglets or crows in the Witham shield are, Canon Raine thinks, merely the popinjays of the Thwengs.

³ Thomas Witham, of Cornborough, was Chancellor of the Exchequer temp. Hen. VI and Edw. IV. His will is dated 1 March, 1474–5, proved at York 18 April, 1481. He married Agnes, daughter and co-heiress of William Thweng. Her will 12 January, 1490–1, proved 5 October, 1495. No issue is mentioned.

Valerius Vindicianus has caused this monument to be erected to the memory of his very pious wife, Titia, who died at the age of 38: to his son Valerius Adjutor, who died at the age of 20; and his son Variolus, who died at the age of 15.

2 This brass is still in existence. A better copy of the inscription is in Mr. Mill Stephenson's "East Riding Brasess" (Yorkshire Archæological Journal, xii, 207), and is used here.

3 Sir Marmaduke Constable, of Flamborough, called "Little Sir Marmaduke," one of the commanders at Flodden, Sheriff of Yorkshire 1489, 1494, 1509, born circa 1455, died 20 November, 1518. Will 1 May, 1518, proved at York 27 April, 1520. (Test. Ebor., v, 88.) Married first Margery, daughter of Lord Fitzhugh; secondly, Joyce, daughter of Sir Humphrey Stafford. (See Dugdale's Visitation—continued, by the Editor.)

3 This monument, which Dodsworth does not describe, is probably that which is now in the church, and engraved in Poulson’s Holdenres, i, 210. He says:—“It is an altar tomb to the memory of Sir Martin de la See, knight, who was lord of this place, and died in 1494. On the slab is the recumbent figure of a knight in plate armour, his hands are joined in prayer, his feet rest on a lyon, and his head on a helmet. The entire monument is of alabaster, and in excellent preservation.” Sir Martin made his will 20 November, proved 15 December, 1494. His daughter, Matilda, married Henry Boynton, of Acklam, and carried the Barnston estates into his family.
4 Sir Francis Boynton was High Sheriff 1596. Will 27 May, 1614, proved 29 May, 1617. Married Dorothy, daughter of Sir Christopher Place.

Quaque cavis gaudis [sic] antris, qua rupibus, et quam
Non pudet extremos ludere vi[r]go sonos :
Ponite suave melos, redolentia ponite sarta,
Festivosque choris : ponito virgo tuos.
Ludos laeta decent, ornantque repotia : tristes
Heu poscunt nimium tristia fata modos.
Inter frugiferas peperit quas Anglia terras,
Qua nullus toto ditior orbe locus :
Una caput tollit Leicestria : nulla sororum
Dignior, indigna est nulla parente tamen.

Feeta viris, virtus dederat queis nomina : feeta
Magna quibus dederat nomina stemma, viris
Quorum splendori qui terris terimus : alta et Sydera sublimi vertice fama ferit ;
Ut sileam reliquas, quae tantos fundere luctus
Cogit, et in lachrimas solvere frustra genas.
Flebilis una mihi domus est, Beamontia vulgo
Dicitur, est vobis flebilis una domus.

Hanc Bellomontam veteres dixere Britannii :
Hac magis illustrem terra Britannia negat.

Hanc meritum et virtus titulis ornarat honoris :
Hanc comes insignem reddiditque domum.

Armiger hinc ramum Nicolaus duxit, avito
Cui notus dignum dixit honore virum.

Hunc Cole Ortonae cecinerunt carmine Nymphae,
Hic Cole Ortonais nomen adauidit agris.

Quem pia multipliciti conjunx cum prole bearet
Et dederat tanto pignora digna viro :
Ille suo tandem divino numine fato
Functus ad Elysios umbra volavit agros.
Filia major erat, quam vos lugere videtis,
Quam pia ferali murmure turba gemet,
Hac [sic] dum virgo fuit, virgo non castior ulla:
Conjuge nec charo charior ulla viro.
Quam cum maturos virgo compleverat annos,
Tandem illibato fœdere junxit Hymen:
Hanc Gulielmus habet Randus cognomine dignus,
Cujus sola esset Zona recincta manu,
Pronuba quos junxit Juno, non tristis Erinnyx,
Dira nec infælix carmina Bubo dedit.
Pignora quinque dedit Lucina his mascula, sexus
Æminici hæc eadem pignora terna dedit.
Omnia jurares uno pronata parente
Esse Deo, turpi corpora labe carent,
Et referunt mores, et lumina casta parentum,
Clavis et officii possidet ora pudor.
Non tamen hæc prosunt, non prosunt vota: beati
Dimidium partus infera Juno rapit,
Dimidium linquit Æstæ solamina matri,
Gnatos et gnatas Ætnea virgo pares.
Non tamen his contenta, piam rapit invada matrem,
Et trahit ad sedes Persephoneæ suas.
Quatuor alma manus compressit lumina matris:
A[er] totidem matri lumina pressa sue;
Hoc tamen intereat, illis puerilibus annis
Ruperunt tetricæ licia curta deæ.
Hæc vitam decies quintaë [sic] produxit ad annum:
Bisque decem casto consociata toro.
Bella erat hæc mulier, hæc forma, hæc corpore bella,
Moribus hæc bella, hæc nomine bella fuit.
Bellomonte dedit nomen, sed non mage bellam
Bellomonta dabit, nec dedit ante parem.
Moribus hæc matrona piis Epimethia vicit;
Flumine quæ ex tanto sola superstes erat.
Icaris huic cessit viduo discedere lecto,
Cogere quam Icariæ non potuere minæ:
Nec nostræ similis raro quæ fida redemit
Exemplo propria Thessala morte virum.
Hanc lachrimis defete piis, huic specta movete:
Nec cessent querulos tympana rauca modos.
Ultima quæque prius didicisti verba referre,
Integra, quæ fudit caetera turba, refer.
Cujus vestra prius mirata est villula dotes,
Defunctam ignavo pondere terra premit.

ΕΠΙΤΑΦΙΟΝ.

In obitum generosissimi viri Latham, qui ex hac vita migravit pridie Nonas Februarii, anno salutis 1601.
Defuncti quicunque cupis cognoscere stemma,
Quae vita, aut virtus, relligiove fuit,
Aspice stemma, docent suspensa insignia, magnis
Hic longa serie dicitur ortus avis.
Accipe, totus ager vitam moresque docebit,
Qui lachrimas fundens sistere posse negat.
Non tamen invedees? Jactura modum superavit.
Quis lachrimis igitur possit adesse modus?
Nuper erat celebris, nunc Ottringhamia sorget,
Perdidit hæ lumen, perdidit omne decus:
Hunc solum jactare solet, cujus domus unquam
Clausa fuit nulli, mens pia, larga manus;
Almæ perpetuus, dum vixit, pacis: alumnus
Vixit, et hærebat pectore verus amor.
Mos erat huic læso, stupeas, miserescere parvis,
Deque suo magnis cedere jura viris.
Sic pacem coluit, verum sic pavit amorem:
Sic parvis, magnis, undique charus erat.
Sed quid stemma juvat? Quid nomen inutile? virtus!
Aut tot egenorum vota precesque virum.
Pulvis erit, quod pulvis erat, pars altera celsi
Miratur scandens limina magna poli.

Robert Fowbery.

Apostrophe ad Tethin.
Quem videas validis tua stringere littora remis,
Ære vel undosum scindere, Tethi, salum,
Vel remis inhibere jube, vel carbasa malis
Solvere, proque salo dives arare solum.
Cujus enim variis fœtæ genuere carinæ
Mercibus, et nautis fit gravis ære manus.
Mortales fastidit opeæ, mercesque fugaces
Spernens, Elysios visere gaudet agros.
Exuvias posuit carnis nervosque cutesque
Concedens morti, mussitat umbra levis:

Exiguoque trucem conducit Porthmea naulo,
Trajicit horrendas jam grave pondus aquas:
Nec remeare licet, donec tuba rauca canoros
Excierit fundens ossa sepulta sonos.
Dumque animam corpusque simul qui servat, honore

Man’s life a warfare is, wher man must fight
To gain the honor of a Christian knight.
Thou wast a soldier in a double sence,
For which thou hast a double recompence.
First, since thou hast not spar’d to spend thy blood,
In honor of thy king and countrie’s good.
Thou hast attchi’vd true fame as thy due merit,
Who, Josuah-like, mad’st knowne thy martiall spirit
For thy spirituall fight, thou hast Heavnn’s crowne
Having with Paul perform’d it with renowne.
Spending thy dayes of peace to thy soule’s health,
Hurtfull to none, good to thy common wealth.
And now thy corps in grave doth sleep in rest,
Till soule and body shall with Christ be blest.
A tree (saith Christ) is by the fruit well knowne,

¹ According to Canon Raine, her maiden name was Hatchiffe. She married first Sir Ralph, Lord of Greystock and Wemme, whose will is printed in Test. Ebor., iv, 20, dated 27 May, 1487, proved at York 30 July. She remarried Robert Constable, Serjeant at the Law, a younger son of Sir Robert Constable, of Flamborough. His will is also at York, 2 September, 1501, proved 13 January, 1501-2. (Test. Ebor., iv, 195.) Her own will was dated 12 April, 1505, proved 8 June.

² Peter Langdale married Anne, daughter of Michael Warton, of Beverley. Their son, Sir Marmaduke, afterwards Lord Langdale, was the well-known Royalist commander.
None ever saw on thistles figs t' have growne.
None but good Christians then can do good deeds,
Each pious action from true faith proceeds.
Like Anna, that good prophetesse, thy zeale
Abounded haith to God, the commonweale.
Nay, like good Dorcas, thou the poore dost cherishe,
Giving them harbor, that they might not perish:
Delighted most a vertuous life to live,
And unto all ther right and due to give.
Yea, thou the best part didst with Mary choose,
Loving, whiles living, wisely itt to use:
Wherfore, as thou in good works diddst abound,
Thy sainted soule with saints shall aye be crown'd.

endewed to discharge their cures, having howsling people perteyning to the said cures severally xi hundred and moe a pcece, and doth minister at every alter severally all manner of sacraments and sacramentalls to ther severall parishoners, over and besydes the prebends of Stanwige, which hath the order, admission and correction of all the ministers within the said church, as followeth. And also we think it convenyent to have some moe mynisters for to serve the cures ther, because the number of the people is very great, and heretofore they have had much help of the chantry preistes in the said church.

Henry Bowet, archbishop Ebor., licencia Henrici 5, confirmabat Johanni de Ely, tunc procuratori vicariorum de Ripon., unam peciam terre, parcella[m] manerii sui de Rippon., ex parte occidentali prebende de Munckettont, continens [sic] 140 pedes in longitudine et 67 pedes in latitudine, habendam eidem procuratori et sex vicariis pro hospitio suo inibi construendo imperpetuum, per cartam datam 28 Martii, 1415 [or 1413 ?].

King James, by his lettres patentes dated att Westminster, 2 August, anno regni sui Anglie, etc., 2do, et Scotie 38, concessit (Moysi Fowler) decano et capitulo ecclesie collegiate de Rippon., totum illud [sic] prebendam de Stanewigg in comitatu suo et tenendum [sic] ad suum pro[prium] usum. Nota, they did restore again to the king all ther lands and had only the rents confirmed.

Prebendes of Stanwigge, Nunewick, Stodeley (note that Dacor and Beverley were annexed to the prebend of Studeley, 36 Edward 3, BBB.,1 148), Thorpe, Gevendale, Monckton, Shawwe.

Ten chantry preistes, called the 10 petty cannons, bound by ther foundacions to be present dayly in the quere in ther habitts and help with [?].

Ther is also belonging to the said quier 3 deacons, 3 sub-deacons, 6 thuribibers, which be sixe clarkes of the said severall cures, 6 quiresters, a chamberlein, a clarke of the workes, a sexton, an organist, a schoolmaster of song.

Within the church Saint Wilfride's needle was in our granfathers' remembrance very famous; a narowe pole in the crowdes or close vaulted roome under the ground, whereby women's honestie was tryed: for such as were chast did easily passe through, but as many as had plaid false were miraculously, I knowe not how, held fast, and cold not creepe through. Camden, fol. 700.

Mr. George Sandys, in his travailes, maketh mention of a place, fyve myles from Cairo in Egypt, called Matarea, where they say that Our Saviour and the blessed Virgin, with Joseph, reposed themselves as they fled from the fury of Herod, in which place ther is a small chapell, in a wall wherof ther is a little concave lined with sweet wood and smoked with incense; in the sole a stone of porphyr, wheron (they say) she did set Our Saviour. Nere ye chappell ther is an orchard, in a corner wherof standeth an overgrowne figgtree, which opened (as they report) to receive Our Saviour and his mother, then hardly escaping the pursuers, closing up againe till the pursue was past: then againe devid[ing], as now itt remayneth. A large hole ther is through one of the sides of the [......?] bulke. This, they say, no bastard[1] [......?], but shall sticke fast by the midle.

3 In margin: "A bastard sticketh fast in the hole of [the] tree." 9 One or two words at the bottom of the page are cut off.

Grimsb. He married Agnes, daughter of Sir John Constable, of Halsham, and died immediately after his father. Administration 14 July, 1445, being succeeded by his brother William.

^3 This brass, also in existence, is probably for Sir Thomas St. Quintin, grandfather of the above Thomas. One of the family married a Mauley, according to the Visitations, so it is likely by the arms impaled that his wife was Agnes Mauley.

^4 This is an earlier member of the family, Sir William St. Quintin, who is said to have married Joan, daughter of Sir Marmaduke Thweng.

^5 Perhaps the arms do not belong to this tomb, as a later Sir William married Dorothy, daughter of Sir Brian Hastings, whose will was proved in 1560.

^6 He seems to have been the George Salvin who founded the branch of Newbiggin, and his wife was daughter of Peter, and sister and co-heiress of Peter de Mauley, of Mulgrave. The other sister married Sir Francis Bigod. The brass does not seem to be now in existence.

^7 The heralds visited the church in 1584-5, and found three shields, one Arg. on a chief, 2 mullets pierced or, within a bordure engrailed gu. The others the same arms, with respectively an annulet and crescent or for difference, which would be for Salveyn. (Glover’s Visitation, Foster’s Ed., 444.)

‘Tanfield [West Tanfield] Church, 17 October, 1622.

In the quyer a marble.

Dum vixit rector de Tanfeld, nomine Thomas
Sutton,⁴ en jacet hic, graduatus et ille magister
Artibus: ac eciam canonicus hicque Westchester.
Sic Norton victor fundite vota precor.

¹ Sir John Norton, knight (son of John), High Sheriff 1514, who married Margaret, daughter of Sir Roger Ward, of Givendale. Mr. Mill Stephenson says this stone was destroyed in 1875.
² Sir Richard Musgrave purchased or had granted the manor of Norton Conyers after the attinder of the Nortons.
³ The Rilstons were at an early period at Rilston. It came afterwards to the Ratcliffs. Anne, daughter and sole heiress of William Ratcliff, born about 1478, married John Norton, esquire, whose son, Richard Norton, of Norton Conyers, was attainted for being concerned in the Pilgrimage of Grace.
⁴ There are good descriptions of this church and monuments in Whitaker’s Richmondshire, ii, 163, and Longstaffe’s Richmondshire.
⁵ Whitaker gives an engraving of this brass. Mr. Mill Stephenson also describes it, and considers it to be about 1490.

³ Thomas, Lord Dacre, married Eleanor, daughter of Lord Fitzhugh.
⁴ Probably John, second Lord Marmion, summoned 1326 to 1335. He married Maud, daughter of John, Lord Furnival.
⁵ Avice, daughter of the above Lord Marmion, married Sir John Grey, of Rotherfield, who died 33 Edw. III, 1359. Their issue were to take the name of Marmion. Their eldest son, John, who died in Spain, was succeeded by his brother Robert, who married Lora St. Quintin, but had only a daughter, married to Sir Henry Fitzhugh.

About a grate of iron.

Hic jacet Ricardus Nevil,⁵ miles, dominus de Latimer, et Anna, uxor ejus, filia Humfridi Stafford, domina de Latymer, filii [sic] Henrici

Robert Marmion, son of Sir John Grey and Avice Marmion, and Lora St.
Quintin as above.

² This is considered to be the tomb of John Marmion and his wife Maud, daughter of John, Lord Furnival, as in the window, note 1. It is difficult to make out the arms underneath, and if they were connected. They look to be Courtenay, Clifford, Grey, and Stafford.

³ It is suggested this is the monument of Robert, last of the early Lords Marmion, an inerm man, who left the estates to his sister Avice, as above.

⁴ This last inscription is in different ink, and must have been added some years later.

⁵ The tomb of Sir Richard Nevile, second Lord Latimer, summoned 12
August, 1492, to 3 November, 1529.
He died in 1530. He was at Flodden.
His father, Sir Henry Nevile, was killed at Edgecote, near Banbury. His grandfather, George, first Lord Latimer, being a younger son of Ralph Nevile, first Earl of Westmorland, was married to Elizabeth
Beauchamp, daughter of Richard, fifth
Earl of Warwick, by Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas, Lord Berkeley, by Margaret, daughter of Warine de L'Isle,

Orate pro anima Jacobi Metcalf, armigeri, qui hanc fenestram

He was lord of Hertlington.

Thes verses painted on the chancell walls.

This church of beawty most, repaired thus so bright,
200 poundes and more did cost Sir William Craven, knight;
Many other workes of charity, wherof no mention here,
True tokens of his bounty, in this our parishe did appeare.
The place of his nativity in Appletrewyke is seene:
And late of London cytty lord maior hee hath beene.

Anno Domini 1612.

1 Son of Francis Wandesford, Esq., of Kirtlington, by Anne, daughter of John Fulthorpe, Esq., of Hipswell. He was High Sheriff of Yorkshire, 1578, and was buried 12 July, 1590. His wife was Elizabeth, daughter of Sir George Bowes, of Streatlam. The Wandesford family continued in the male line till 1784.

2 Ancestor of the above Sir Christopher. His wife was Eleanor, daughter of Thomas Montford, Lord of Hackforth. Her will, 2 October, 1472, proved at York 2 September, 1473, is printed in Test. Ebor., iii, 201. (For a pedigree of the family see Dugdale’s Visitation continued, by the Editor.)

3 He would most probably be Sir James Metcalfe, of Nappa, knight, son of Thomas Metcalfe, Esq., of the same place, and Elizabeth de Hertlyngton, the heiress of Hertlington, which his son, Sir Christopher Metcalfe, knight, sold. He died 20 September, 1539.

4 His son was created Earl of Craven, and his brother Henry was ancestor of the present Earl. Their present arms are: Arg. a fess between six cross crosslets fitchee gu., but the shield granted to William Craven, citizen of London, 43 Elizabeth, was: Or, five fleurs-de-lis in cross sa. a chief wavy az.
The care of this work so beautifull and faire,
Was put to John Topham, clerk, by the late lord mayor
Of that most famous cytty of London so bright,
By Sir William Craven, that bountifull knight,
Borne in this parishe in Apple[e]rewyk town,
Who regarded no cost, so the worke were well done.

The forenamed Sir William Craven did cause all the church and chancel to be furnished with stalles and seates of waynscote. He made a cawsey from Appletrewike to the church. He builded 4 bridges in this parish, one over Wherfe att Burnsall, a very faire one,
one which is engraven with this inscription:

This bridge was builded att the only coste and chardges of Sir
William Craven, knight, alderman of the cytty of London, anno Domini 1609.

Another over a brok called Barban, of stone, one at Skirram, of wood, one at Holgill, stone, and repaired Dibbles Bridge, and gave x/.
a yere for ever to mayntenance of such things as he had made. He likewise new builded the church of Burns-all, as this inscription in stone of [sic]
the porch testifith:

This church was repaired and new builted att the only costes and charges of Sir William Craven, knight, and alderman of the cyttye of London, and late lord maior of the same, anno Domini 1612.

He likewise walled the church yard, as this inscription over the gate evidenceth:

This church yard was newly made and walled, gaites and all, att the only costes and charges of Sir William Craven, knight, and alderman of the cytty of London, and late lord maior of the same,
anno Domini 1612.

He likewise founded a free schoole
ner unto the church, over the dore wherof are thes wordes:

William Craven, alderman of the cyttty of London, founded this schoole
anno Domini 1602.

He gave 120/. a yere to the master and 10/. to the usher.

1 There is a pedigree of the Rilstons, of Rilston, in Whitaker’s Craven, 518. The lands came to the Radcliffs by marriage, and after to the Norton by the marriage of Alice Radcliffe to John Norton, father of Richard Norton, implicated in the Rising of the North.

2 There is a pedigree of Malham, of Elslack, in Glover’s Visitation, 295. William Malham, living 1562, married Alice Radcliffe. The colours there in the shield are reversed, the ground gu., the chevrons arg.

3 This effigy, in armour, is still in existence, and is fully described in Mill Stephenson’s “North Riding Brasses,” Yorkshire Archaeological Journal, xvii, 263. It is supposed to be circa 1560.

4 Richard Aldeburgh, of Aldeburgh, married first Katherine, daughter of Sir Thomas Maleverer, of Allerton, secondly Jane, daughter and co-heir of James Maliever, of Wotherasome, who brought in the quarterings. (See Glover’s Visitation, 279.)

¹ In Dodsworth's MSS. at Oxford, vol. 88, fo. 31, there are "church notes" regarding Bracewell Church, so it is considered useful to add them to this volume. Mrs. Tempest, of Broughton Hall, has kindly given much information for the notes.

² Probably Sir Richard Tempest, of Bracewell and Broughton, whose will is printed in Test. Ebor., i, 412, 26 August, 1427, proved at York 30 September, 1428. His wife was daughter or sister of Robert de Staynford, of Giggleswick.

³ Roger Tempest, of Broughton, buried there; administration 12 January, 1468-9; married Katherine, daughter and heiress of Pyers Gylyot, of Broughton.

⁴ Perhaps Sir Thomas Tempest, of Bracewell. Will 4 October, 1506.

⁵ Alice, daughter of Sir John Tempest, of Bracewell, and Alice Sherburn, of Mitton. married Thomas Talbot, of Bashall.

⁶ Johanna, her sister, married Sir Thomas Metham.

⁷ Agnes, another sister, married William Calverley. Marriage contract 7 January, 1441.

⁸ Grace, another sister, married Henry Halsall, of Halsall, co. Lancaster; marriage contract 1448. These arms are still to be seen. They appear to be dragons' or lions' heads.

⁹ Probably Sir Thomas Tempest above. (See note 3.)

¹ This appears to be the escutcheon of Robert Tempest, son of Nicholas Tempest and Beatrix daughter of John Bradford, of Heath. He was living at the Visitation of 1585, and married, about 1563, Anne, daughter of Bartholomew Pigott.
² There seems some difficulty about the quartering. Dodsworth calls it Thorp, but the arms are the same as Giltott quartered by Tempest, of Broughton, according to Glover.
³ The quarterings 3 and 5 were brought in by the marriage of Sir Piers Tempest to Grace Hebden, heiress, of Rye.
⁴ Sir Richard, of Bracewell, married Rosamond, daughter of Tristram Bolling, of Bolling.
⁵ Nicholas, father of Robert, married Beatrix Bradford. She was buried at Dewsbury 8 December, 1550.
⁶ The account given by Dodsworth of the shields in Selby Church is rather poor. Mr. Mill Stephenson has pointed out that a much fuller list, of which he took a copy, is given in a volume by Sir W. Dugdale, in the possession of the Earl of Winchelsea and Nottingham, exhibited at the Society of Antiquaries in 1890. It is therefore thought worth while to add this account. Mr. Stephenson has greatly assisted the editor in endeavouring to identify the various arms. Those marked with an asterisk seem to be at present in existence.
